Yvonne Brown to Speak at V103 Expo for Today's Black Woman

Chicago, IL – April 4th, 2003 – On April 4th, 2003, Merry Green Promotions Group announced that author and speaker Yvonne Brown would be a convention speaker in the Business University at the Expo for Today's Black Woman on Friday, April 4th. The event will be hosted by V103 at McCormick Place, Chicago and will include Al Sharpton, Dick Gregory, Yolanda Adams, Dr. Alvin Poussaint and Patricia Russell-McCloud.

This is the 11th anniversary of the Expo for Today's Black Woman. In 2002 the Expo drew over 25,000 attendees. This year's event includes a town hall meeting with Dick Gregory and a conversation with Rev. Al Sharpton on the State of Black America.

This is Ms. Brown's first appearance at the event and she declared, "I am honored to be selected to speak on the topic of Survival of The Fittest: Mastering Corporate Culture & Business Etiquette. In this economy only those who are well equipped with the right mix of personal self-development will be able to successfully navigate the corridors of corporate America".

Yvonne the author of "Self Creation: 10 Powerful Principles for Changing Your Life" will also meet and greet the conference attendees at two book signing at the African American Images bookstore booth.

Yvonne's mentors include Nightingale Conant, Zig Ziglar, W. Clement Stone, Brian Tracy (who endorsed her book), Les Brown (who wrote the foreword for "Self Creation) and Randy Gage.
